

DANIEL MENG, M.D., PH.D., FACC

Interventional Cardiology

Dr. Meng received his Ph.D. in biochemistry from Loyola University of Chicago, his medical degree from Rush Medical College in Chicago and completed his internship and residency at Loyola University Medical Center. He completed a fellowship in cardiovascular disease from the University of Illinois at Chicago and an advanced fellowship in interventional cardiology from William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, Michigan. He is board certified in internal medicine, cardiovascular disease and interventional cardiology.

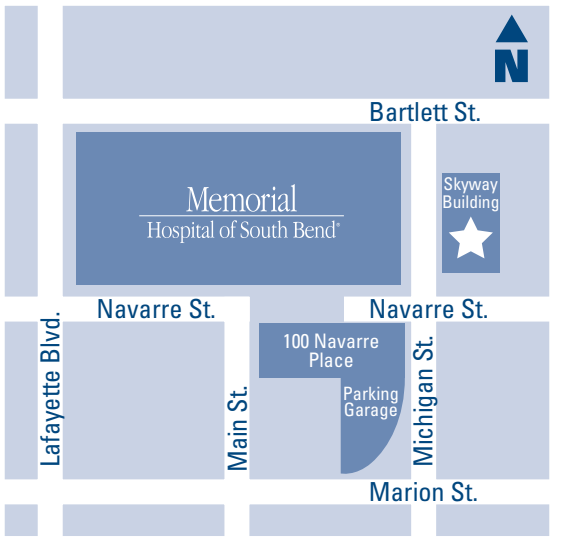

His special interests include transcatheter therapy for coronary artery disease, acute heart failure syndromes, lipid disorders and metabolic syndrome and consultative cardiology.

Memorial

Advanced Cardiovascular InstituteSM

610 N. Michigan St. • Suite 400 • South Bend, IN 46601

574-647-8120

Memorial

Advanced Cardiovascular InstituteSM

610 N. Michigan St. • Suite 400 • South Bend, IN 46601

574-647-8120